DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claim 48 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Based on the originally filed specification it is not clear what a “unique” junction is or how it relates to the present application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 48 – 50 and 52 – 54 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ueno (USPAT 5346838, Ueno).

Ueno discloses in figure 3 a method of forming a circuit for storing information as one of at least two possible stable current states in figures 3 – 6.

With regard to claim 48, Ueno discloses in figure 3 providing a semiconductor substrate (11). Ueno discloses in figure 3 providing doped silicon regions to form a multi-region planar thyristor having at least four regions. Ueno discloses in figure 3 forming at least one polysilicon gate (20) overlying a unique junction of the multi-region planar thyristor thereby making the unique junction a gated diode. Ueno discloses in figures 3 and 4 connecting the at least one polysilicon gate to a voltage source (G) in the multi-region planar thyristor. It is inherent that the voltage source is for producing latch-up in the multi-region planar thyristor.

With regard to claim 49, Ueno discloses in figure 3 providing doped silicon regions that form a seven region planar thyristor.

With regard to claim 50, Ueno discloses in figure 3 providing doped silicon regions that form a p-n-p-n-p-n-p planar thyristor.

With regard to claim 52, Ueno discloses in figure 4 the step of providing doped silicon regions further comprises forming two memory cells (CH0 and CH1)

With regard to claim 53, Ueno discloses in figures 3 and 4 connecting a central region of the seven-region planar thyristor to a shared row address line (C).

With regard to claim 54, Ueno discloses in figure 4 the step of providing doped silicon regions further comprises forming one memory cell (CH0).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 51 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ueno.

With regard to claim 51, Ueno discloses a p-n-p-n-p-n-p planar thyristor. Ueno does not disclose an n-p-n-p-n-p-n planar thyristor. It is well known in the art to form semiconductor devices of reverse polarity. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the present invention to form an n-p-n-p-n-p-n planar thyristor in the method of Ueno for design choice of the manufacturer.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments filed 7/6/2001 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., a gate that "covers only a unique junction" of a multi-region planar thyristor) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993).

Conclusion

8. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
